Do I need to install the Extra Languages?

No, the languages are included in v14.0.3.0 build 10 of MEX and above. This is a big change from previous versions where a language pack would need to be installed for each particular language.

How does the MEX View Change with the new languages?

Virtually every Control in MEX has a label. This label is a static piece of text used to name the field for the user, for example the "Asset Number" drop-down on the Category Change Details screen has a label next to it stating "Asset Number".

Depending on your language selection on startup MEX will translate all the labels within the program accordingly.

For example the Asset Number label above would be automatically translated to Numéro d'actif if the French Language option is selected.

How do I select a different Language?

There are two places you can select a different language to use in MEX.

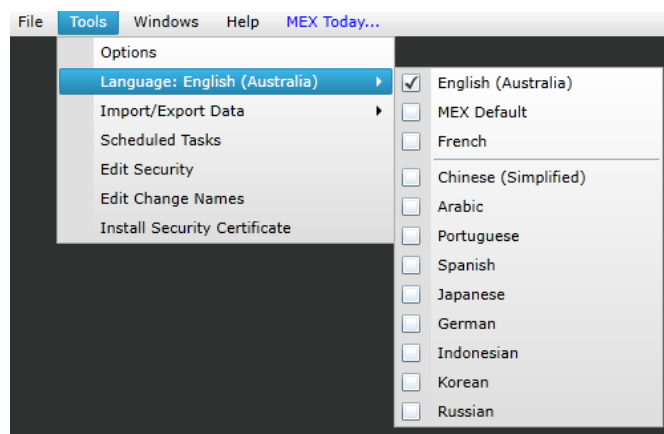

1. On Startup

A language selection menu is displayed to allow the user to select what language to use in the system.

2. Tools Menu

Go to the Tools -> Languages -> Select the Language of choice

Where are these translations made?

Translations are made online using an inbuilt language tool within the MEX application. Upon selection of a particular Language, MEX uses the tool to translate all the labels in the program and applies them while you use MEX. If a new language is selected then the application will need to be restarted. Do note that in order for the translations to work the PC must have access to the internet.

Does MEX Also translate data that I have entered?

No, all entries, whether it is the asset number, any descriptions, trade names, asset types etc... are not affected by any language selection. Whatever entry that is made for any particular field in MEX will remain as it is. The language translations are only applied to labels.

Do warning messages come up in other languages?

Yes, all of the warning messages in MEX and FleetMEX are translated into all languages.
